CHAPTER XIII .- Continued. -14-

The visitor was accordingly admitted to the great man's presence and favored with an official handshake of great heartiness. "I've been hoping to have this pleasure for quite some time, Poundstone," Buck announced easily as he disposed of his hat and overcoat on an adjacent chair. Buck's alert blue eyes opened wide in sympathy with his genial mouth, to deluge Mayor Poundstone with a smile that was friendly, guileless, confidential and singularly delightful. Mr. Ogilyy was a man possessed of tremendous personal inagnetism when he chose to exert it. and that smile was ever the opening gun of his magnetic bombardment, for was a smile that always had the effect of making the observer desire to behold it again-of disarming suspicion and establishing confidence.

"Glad you did-mighty glad." the mayor cried heartfly. "I have read your articles of incorporation, Mr. Ogilvy. You will recall that they were published in the Sequola Sentinel.

strikes me-' "Then you know exactly what we purpose doing, and any further explaation would be superfluous," Buck Interrupted amiably, glad to dispose of the matter so promptly. Again he favored the mayor with his bright smile. and the latter, now fully convinced that here was a young man of vast emprise whom it behooved him to receive in a whole-hearted and public-spirited manner, nodded vigorous approval.

"Well, that being the case, Mr. Ogily," he continued, "what can we Se quoians do to make you happy?"

"Why, to begin with, Mr. Poundstone, you might accept my solemn assurances that despite the skepticism which for some unknown reason appears to shroud our enterprise in the minds of some people, we have incorporated a railroad company for the purpose of building a railroad. The only thing that can possibly interfere with the project will be the declination of the city council to grant us a franchise to run our line through the efty to tidewater. And I am glad to have your assurance that the city council will not drop a cold chisel in the cogs of the wheels of progress."

Mr. Poundstone had given no such assurance, but for some reason he did not feel equal to the task of contradicting this pleasant fellow. Ogilvy continued: "At the proper time we shall apply for the franchise. It will then be time enough to discuss it. In the meantime the N. C. O. plans a pub-He dedicatory ceremony at the first breaking of ground, and I would be greatly honored, Mr. Mayor, if you would consent to turn the first shovelful of earth and deliver the address of welcome upon that occasion."

The mayor swelled like a Thanksgiving turkey. "The honor will be mine," be corrected his visitor.

"Thank you so much, sir. Well, that's another worry off my mind." With the tact of a prime minister Buck then spoke of the magic effect the building of such a line would have upon the growth of Sequola. Sequola, he felt convinced, was destined to become a city of at least a hundred thousand inhabitants; he rhapsodized over the progressive spirit of the community and with a wave of his hand studded the waters of Humboldt bay with the masts of the world's shipping. Suddenly he checked himself, glanced at his watch, apologized for consuming so much of His Honor's valuable time, expressed himself felicitated at knowing the Mayor, gracefully expressed his appreciation for the encouragement given his enterprise and departed.

Half an hour later the Mayor's telephone-bell rang. Buck Ogilvy was on the line. "I beg your pardon for both ering you with my affairs twice in the same day Mr. Mayor," he announced deprecatingly, "but the fact is, a condition has just arisen which necessitates the immediate employment of an attorney. The job is not a very important one and almost any lawyer would do, but in view of the fact that we must sooner or later, employ an attorney to look after our interests locally, it occurred to me that I might as well make the selection of a permanent attorney now. I am a stranger in this city M-Poundstene. Would it be imposing on your consideration if I asked you to recommend such a person?"

"Why, not at all, not at all! Defighted to help you, Mr. Ogilvy, Let me see now, Cadman & Banes, with offices in the Knights of Pythias Temple, would be just the people, although there is Rodney McKersrick, in the Chamber of Commerce building-n eplendid fellow, Mr. Ogilvy, and most destrable. And if I may be pardoned a dash of psternal ego, there is my son Henry Pundstone, junior. While Henry is a young man, his career in the law has been most gratifying, although he basn't had as broad an experience as the others I mentioned, and perhaps your choice had better lie becen Cadman & Banes and Rodney McKondelek."

"Thank you a thousand times," Mr. Ogilvy murmured, and hung up. "We thought so, Buck, we thought so," he softloguizet. "Yes, Cadman & Banes | the buttering." pr Rodney McKendrick may de, but be the sole inhabitant of one rather bare office in the Cardigan block. Buck had fully resolved to give him a retainer of a thousand dollars, or even more, if he asked for it, but after one look at Henry he cut the appropriation to two hundred and fifty dollars. Young Mr. Poundstone was blonde and frail, with large round spectacles, rabbit teeth, and the swiftly receding chin of the terrupin. Moreover, he was in such a flutter of anticipation over the arrival of a client that Buck deduced two things-to-wit, that the Mayor had telephoned Henry he was apt to have a client, and that as a result of this miracle. Henry was in no fit state to discuss the sordid subject of fees and retainers. Ergo, Mr. Ogilvy decided to obviate such discussion now or in the future. He handed Henry a check for two hundred and fifty dollars, which he wrote out on the spot, and with his bright winning smile remarked: "Now, Mr. Poundstone, we will proceed to business. That retainer isn't a large one. I admit, but neither is the job I have for you today. Later, if need of your services on a larger scale should develop, we shall of course expect to make a new arrangement whereby you will receive the customary retainer of all of our corporation at torneys. I trust that is satisfactory."

"Eminently so," gasped the young disciple of Blackstone. "Very well, then; let us proceed to business." Buck removed from a small leather bag a bale of legal-looking documents. "I have here," he announced, "agreements from landowners along the proposed right of way of the N. C. O. to give to that company, on demand, within one year from date. satisfactory deeds covering rights of way which are minutely described in the said agreements. I wish the deeds prepared for signing and recording at the earliest possible moment."

"You shall have them at this time to-morrow," Henry promised.

The head of Henry Poundstone. junior, was held high for the first time since he had flung his modest shingle to the breezes of Sequola six months before, and there was an unaccustomed gleam of importance in his pale eyes as he rushed into his father's office in the city hall.

"By jinks, Dad," he exulted. "Twe hooked a fish at last-and he a whopper. Read this," and he thrust a yellow telegraph-form under the Mayor's nose. The latter adjusted his glasses and read:

"Imperative building operations commence immediately. Local skepticism injurious and delays dangerous. must show good faith to our New York friends. J. P. M. insists upon knowing promptly where we stand with Sequola city council. See them immediately and secure temporary franchise, if possible, to enable us to cross Water street at B street and build out Front street. If your judgment indicates no hold-up on permanent franchise, commence active operations immediately upon acquisition of permanent franchise,

"HOCKLEY."

This telegram, as the Mayor observed, had been filed at San Francisco subsequent to Ogilvy's visit to him that

"Ah-h-h !" breathed His Honor, "That accounts for his failure to bring the matter up at our interview. Upon him return to the hotel he found this telegram-and got busy at once. By Jupiter, this looks like business. Henry, how did you come into possession of this telegram?"

"It must have been mixed up in the documents Ogilvy left with me. 1 found it on my desk when I was sorting out the papers, and in my capacity of attorney for the N. C. O. I had no hesitancy in reading it."

"Well, I do declare! Wonder who

"Who the devil is J. P. M?" Henry smiled tolerantly upon his gnorant parent, "Well, how may J. Plerpont Morgan do for a guess?" le

"Hell's bells and panther-tracks!" Mayor Poundstone started as if snake bitten, "I should say you have hooked a big fish. Boy, you've landed a whale! Did Ogilvy say anything about future business?"

"He did. Said if I proved satisfactory, he would probably take me on and pay the customary retainer given all of their corporation attorneys." "Well, by golly, he'd better take you

"If I could guarantee Mr. Ogilvy

Lord have mercy on the corporate soul | that temporary franchise mentioned in his telegram, it might help me te get in right with J. P. M. at the start," his hopeful suggested.

"Guarantee it!" his father shouted. "Guarantee it! Well I should snicker! Henry Poundstone, junior, proved to We'll just show J. P. M. and his crowd that they made no mistake when they picked you as their Sequola legal representative. I'll call a special meeting of that little old city council of mine and jam that temporary franchise through while you'd be saying 'Jack Robinson !" "

> He carefully made a copy of the telegram

"H-m !" he grunted. "Wants to cross Water street at B and build out Front street. Well, I dare say nobody will kick over the traces at that. Nothing but warehouses and lumber-drying yards along there, anyhow. Still come to think of it, Pennington will probably raise a howl about sparks from the engines of the N. C. O. setting his lumber piles afire."

"He'll be dead against it," Henry declared. "I know, because at the Wednesday meeting of the Lumber Manufacturers' association the subject of the N. C. O, came up and Pennington made a talk against it. He said the N. C. O. ought to be discouraged, if it was a legitimate enterprise, which he doubted, because the most feasible and natural route for a road would be from Willits, Mendocino county, north to Sequola. I tell you he's dead set against it."

"Then we won't tell him anything about it, Henry. We'll just pull off this special session of the council and forget to invite the reporters; after the job has been put over, Pennington can come around and how! all he wants. We're not letting a chance like this alip by us without grabbing a handful of the tall-feathers, Henry: No, sir-not if we know it."

"You bet!" said Henry earnestly. At eleren-thirty Thursday morning. young Henry Poundstone, having worked the greater part of the previous night preparing the deeds, delivered both deeds and franchise to Buck Ogllvy at the latter's hotel. It was with difficulty that the latter could conceal his tremendous amazement when Henry casually handed him the franchise. True, he had slipped that fake telegram among the contracts as balt for Henry and his father, but his fondest hope, at the time he conceived the brilliant idea, was that Henry would show the telegram to his father and thus inculcate in the old gentleman a friendly feeling toward the N. C. O. not unmixed with pleasurable anticipations of the day when Henry junior, should be one of the most highly prized members of the legal staff of a public-service corpora-

When he could control his emotions, Mr. Ogllvy gazed approvingly upon Henry Poundstone, "Mr. Poundstone," he said solemnly, "I have met some meteoric young attorneys in my day, but you're the first genuine comet have seen in the legal firmament. Do you mind telling me exactly how you procured this franchise-and why you procured it without explicit orders from moy"

Henry did his best to look puzzled. "Why," he said, "you left that telegram with me, and I concluded that you regarded it as self-explanatory or else had forgotten to mention it. I knew you were busy, and I didn't want to be announced. Emerged at 3:12, to bother you with details, so I just walking slowly and in deep thought. went ahead and filled that order for Anything wrong about that?"

"Certainly not. It's perfectly wonderful. But how did you put it over?" Henry smirked. "My dad's the engineer," he said bluntly. "If thirty days ain't enough time, see me and I'll get you thirty days more. And in the emerging at 4:10. He then returned meantime nobody knows a thing about this little deal. I figured Colonel Pennington might try to block you at that

Buck Ogilvy extended his hand in benediction and let it drop on Henry Poundstone's thin shoulder.

"My dear Poundstone," he said earnestly, "I am not a man to forget shall-..." He smiled his radiant smile "You understand, of course, that I am speaking for myself and can make you no firm promises. However-" He that you'll do!"

"Thank you," said Henry Pound stone, Jr. "Thank you ever so much."

An experience extending over a very active business career of thirty years had convinced Col. Seth Pennington of the futility of wracking his brains in vain speculation over mysteries. When, therefore, the Northern California Oregon rallroad commenced to encroach on the Colonel's time-appropriation for sleep, he realized that there was but one way in which to conserve his rest and that was by engaging to fathom the mystery for him a specialist in the unraveling of mysteries. In times gone by, the Colonel had found a certain national detective agency an extremely efficient aid to well-known compacted agenies, and to these tried and true suband satisfying anformation anent the | the other young any processed in Northern California Outrage!

The information forthcoming from Dun's and Bradstreet's was vague and unsatisfying. Neither of these two commercial agencies could ascertain anything of interest regarding the finances of the N. C. O. For the present the corporation had no office, its destinies in San Francisco being guarded by a well-known attorney who had declined to make any statement regarding the company but promised one at an early date. The board of directors consisted of this attorney, his two assistants, his stenographer, and Mr. Buchanan Ogilvy. The company had been incorporated for five million dollars, divided into five million shares of par value of one dollar each, and five shares had been subscribed!

"It looks fishy to me," the Colonel commented to his manager, "and I'm more than ever convinced it's a scheme of that Trinidad Redwood Timber company to start a timber boom and unload. And that is something the Laguna Grande Lumber company does not view with favor, for the reason that one of these bright days those Trinidad people will come to their senses and sell cheap to us. However, to be sure is to be satisfied. Telephone the San Francisco office & have the detective agency that handled the longshoremen's strike job for us send a couple of their best operatives up on the next steamer, with instructions to report to me on arrival."

When the operatives reported, the Colonel's orders were brief and explicit. "I want to know all about a man named Buchanan Ogilvy, who is of way for the Northern California Oregon railroad. Find him. Get up explained. It had contained a bribe

The brunette young lady who works in the Cardigan Redwood Lumber company's office emerged presently and entered the car, which then proceeded to No. 38 Redwood boule vard, where the brunette young lady alighted and entered the house. She returned at seven sharp, accompanied by a young lady whom she introduced to O. All three were then driven to the Canion restaurant at 432 Third street. Needless to relate, this report Lad a most amazing effect upon Colonel Pennington, and when at length he could recover his mental equilibrium, he set about quite calmly to analyze the report, with the result that he promptly arrived at the following com

(1) His niece Shirley Sumner was not to be trusted in so far as young Bryce Cardigan was concerned. De spite her assumption of hostility toward the fellow since that memorable day in Pennigton's woods, the Colonel was now fully convinced that she had made her peace with him and had been the recipient of his secret attentions right along.

(2) The N. C. O. was still a mys tery, but a mystery in which Bryet Cardigan was interested. Moreover, he was anxious to aid the N. C. O. to every way possible. However, the Colonel could understand this. Cardigan would aid anything that might possibly tend to lift the Cardigan lumber interests out from under the iron heel of Colonel Pennington.

(3) The N. C. O. was going to make a mighty aluff, even to the extent of applying for a franchise to run over the city streets of Sequois. Hence Ogilvy's visit to Mayor Poundstonedoubtless on the advice of Bryce Cardigan.

The trail was growing hot; the Colonel mopped his brow and concentrated further. If the N. C. FORDSON

TRADE MARK

There is every reason in the world why every farmer should buy a Fordson Tractor, while there is not a single reason in the world why a farmer should not buy a Fordson Tractor.

In the claims we make for the Fordson Tractor as being the superior farm Tractor, there is nothing of boasting. Our claims are based upon demonstrated facts. In every sensible test that has been made (and we don't believe in any jockeying or technical tests) but in the real common sense work on the farm-the work the Tractor was intended to accomplish-we say, in all such tests the Fordson has stood head and shoulders above all competing Tracors. And this is best proven in the fact that while there are about three hundred thousand farm Tractors in use in the United States today, and while Tractors have been sold to farmers for twenty years, and while the Fordson Tractor has only been on the market two years, more than one-third of all the Tractors in use in the United States are Fordson Tractors.

Now you can't upset a fact. You can't back away from an established truth, and there it is-out of three hundred thousand Tractors, one hundred thousand are Fordsons, and there are probably some fifty different makes of Tractors on the market. Just let your common sense consider these facts. "Figs are not plucked from thistle bushes, nor plums from thorn trees.'

The Fordson Tractor has the necessary power. It is economical in operation. It is flexible in control and operation. It is simple in design, and it is sturdily built of the best iron and steel. It is the product of the genius of Henry Ford, and it wasn't placed on the market until Henry Ford had tested it, and tested it, and tested it, before he asked the farmers to buy it. It is no idle faith that in the Fordson Tractor Henry Ford has given to mankind one of the greatest benefits which has ever come to civilized man.

Now we solicit every farmer to buy one or more Fordsons Come in and see them. Come in and let us tell you more than we can in an advertisement. Let us demonstrate to you. Let us put it to every test that you ask. The Tractor is just as necessary for the farmer as water is in the house. Come in! Look over the Fordson. Test it. Don't take any chances. Don't experiment. Supply your farm with the Tractor of established

Illinois Central's 1920 Bill For New Equipment Totals $27,109,768

The railroads of the United States have not been able to move promptly all the traffic offered, and business has suffered. This condition has been caused, very largely, by a lack of locomotives and cars. The railroads are not to blame. For a decade preceding the war an anti-railroad spirit prevented the levying of rates which would guarantee an investment return sufficient to attract capital for financing the purchasing of adequate equipment; and during Federal control equipment purchased fell far short of the average of the preceding years.

Now that the railroads have been returned to the control of their owners and more adequate rates have been awarded, the purchase of equipment has increased greatly. The Illinois Central has placed orders to date for locomotives and cars which will cost $27,109,768. The purchases include:

150 Locomotives

2150 Coal Cars 1000 Refrigerator Cars

500 Stock Cars

300 Box Cars 200 Flat Cars 20 Suburban Coaches

12 Compartment Coaches

18 Baggage Cars

5 Dining Cars

50 Caboose Cars

A part of this equipment has been received. Further deliveries are under way, and will be kept up for a period of tweve months.

The 150 locomotives cost $11,809,675. One hundred are for freight service and are 40 per cent larger in tractive power than now in general use on our lines. Twenty-five are for passenger service and twenty-five are for switch service. Their delivery will begin this month and will be completed early next year.

The 4,150 freight cars cost $13,473,600. We have received 1,500 coal cars. The delivery of the remainder has begun and will extend over a period of twelve months.

The fifty-five cars for passenger train service cost $1,676,493. They will be delivered during the first three months of next year.

The fifty caboose cars cost $150,000. Nineteen have been deliveredthe balance will be ready January 1st.

In addition to this amount expended for new equipment, the Illinois Central System has appropriated $8,000,000 since the return of its property for enlargement of roadway facilities. Much of this work is under way.

While the growth of the Illinois Central System may not have kept pace with the growth of business in the territory served by it, that has not stood still is evidenced by the fact that during the past ten years it has expended $169,279,178 for additions and betterments to its property.

Your attention is invited to these figures as testimony that our first consideration is service to the public.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

IMPROVED HIGHWAYS

INCREASE IN MOTOR TRAFFIC

Statistics Show Increase of 1,418,829 Cars Over 1918-Roads Must Be Maintained.

That the present interest in the construction of new highways should not divert attention from properly maintaining highways already improved is a point which the bureau of public roads, United States department of agriculture, has had occasion to emphasize many times in recent months, particularly in view of the enormous increase in motor vehicle traffic which is taking place. The bureau recently completed a compilation of statistics from all the states of the Union showing that there were a total of 7,565,446 registered motor cars (including motor cycles and trucks) in the United States in 1919. This is an increase of 23 per cent, or 1,418,829 motor cars over 1918. Such figures indicate that the country's highways are being used far more than in the past, it is pointed out, and in consequence added attention must be given to the repair problem. The increase in the number of cars for 1919 over 1918 represents about 10 per cent more cars than the total number registered in the entire

Additional use of roads and streets has, of course, been accompanied by additional revenue paid to state and local governments in the form of license fees, which in nearly all states are devoted to highway needs. The registration and license fees for automobiles, trucks, and motor cycles in use in 1919 totaled $64,697,255.58-an increase of 20 per cent ever 1918. The total revenues for New York and Pennsylvania the past year were about double the revenues received for all motor vehicle registrations and licenses in the entire United States in 1912.

Certain of the states, notably Maryland, have experienced difficulty in se curing road-building materials owing

Good Roads Are Advantageous Alike to Producer and Consumer-Storage Charges Less.

When the roads of the great producing zones of this country are improved, benefits will accrue not only to producers, but to consumers. When marketing is distributed throughout the year, storage charges must decline. This country is paying at present large storage prices on foodstuffs. The disadvantages of freight congestion in the fall cannot be entirely eliminated in many places, but good roads will certainly have a marked tendency to distribute hauling over longer periods. It is reasonable to say, therefore, that good roads mean that diversified farming will be encouraged, the area of profitable production increased, the opportunity for favorable marketing Improved, and more uniform distribution of farm products secured.

Mrs. Wallingford gave them permission to pass the night in the unoccupied portion of the building. This they accepted gladly.

Finding out in some way that the movers occupied the other end of the building, dragged his wife from the bed and tramped her to death on the floor. He then took the baby, threw it in the fire and left the house. The movers, hearing cries, rushed into the room, but too late to save the lives of the wife or child.
